

Submitted to the Canadian Transportation Agency (Form submission)

Subject: Consultation on proposed changes to strengthen the Air Passenger Protection Regulations

Name: Timothy Kerr

Date: 2023-08-08

I feel airlines should not be able to automatically cancel all portions of a reservation due to missing one part or at least, not cancel a return flight when the outbound flight is not used. There is only the missed flight penalty if you use the first portion but not the return, but they get both automatically when you miss the outbound flight. OR.... There should be in large print advice to always book one way flights as all flights are cancelled if you miss your initial one.... Fair is fair.