Provision for compensation needs to be made due to the possibility of flights leaving early. I was recently on a Flair Airlines flight that left more than 2 hours earlier than my scheduled departure time. I was not notified of this change (arriving at the airport 2 hours and 40 minutes before departure). I was rebooked on a flight that (factoring in its 2 hour and 40+ minute delay), was 8 hours after the flight I was initially booked on had been scheduled to leave.
