

Submitted by email to the Canadian Transportation Agency

Subject : Service Animals

To whom it may concern,

I am writing in regards to service animals on flights. This should be limited to service dogs for the blind and disabled, not emotional support dogs.

I agree with this plan only despite having asthma and a severe allergy to dogs. I do worry about sitting on a plane with a service dog nearby and hope the flight attendant would be able to move me farther away which even then may not be enough. It is possible for me to have a severe asthma attack and heart failure, so it is a definite worry.

Please restrict flying to service dogs with specialized training for disabled people only.

Sincerely,

Diane

(Removed)