

Good evening,

Please consider food allergies in the new CTA regulations. There needs to be consistent requirements of staff training and other accommodations for food allergic people. Staff need to be trained to know what anaphylaxis looks like and how to treat it. There should be safe food options available on all forms of travel including airlines. Foods included as the top Canadian allergens should be reduced as much as possible, and the ability to board early to pre-clean a seat would be helpful as well. Thanks in advance.

Best regards,

Corinna Meckelborg